Advertising Read more Paris (AFP) France on Sunday launched a major political comeback campaign that will be key to victory in the country's key 2020 presidential election race, warning voters of a "serious risk" in the upcoming campaign. "This return to the polls is an opportunity to rebuild France, to make sure this election results in a different France," Nicolas Sarkozy, a former president, said at a rally in the west of France. The second round of voting will take place on May 7 between two candidates, who will go head-to-head May 3. More than 230 people attended the rally in the western city of Nantes where Sarkozy, 66, said he would forge ahead to "change everything that is going on" and punish those who "do not want to change anything". "Do not vote for those who do not give a damn about the issue of unemployment, work, our society," Sarkozy said. The rally underlined the new role of former president and Sarkozy ally Nicolas Dupont-Aignan -- who will run as an independent candidate -- after the National Front (FN) was propelled to the top of the polls in early December. At the event, the two men -- the only two
